

National Youth Manifesto Towards 2023 Elections and Beyond-Liberia

PRIORITIZING YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONCERNS/ISSUES IN POLITICAL AFFAIRS LIBERIA 2023

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Naymote Partners for Democratic Development, Liberia's premier democratic advancement institution, wishes to appreciate all those who contributed to the development of the National Youth Manifesto Towards 2023 Elections and Beyond. We are particularly grateful to the Ducor Institute for Social and Economic Research for facilitating the events leading to the development of the Youth Manifesto.

The issues listed in the Manifesto were informed by insights shared by expert panelists at the Youth Agenda Symposium. We are therefore grateful to the following individuals for sharing their perspectives on key thematic areas of the symposium: Massa Mayson Dennis, founder and CEO of Revive Technology and Advisory Services; Mahmud Johnson, CEO of J-PALM Liberia; Benjamin Karmorh, Jr. Environmentalist at the Environment Protection Agency of Liberia; W. Lawrence Yealue, II, Country Director of Accountability Lab Liberia and Co-Chairperson of the Open Government Partnership Liberia; and Jeremiah Swen Secretary General of the National Civil Society Council of Liberia. These panelists not only shared their insights on the issues but inspired and motivated the symposium participants by providing anecdotes about their own life and professional journeys.

Naymote would like to thank the following partners for their support of this initiative: the Embassy of Sweden, the Embassy of the United Kingdom, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations, the Open Society Foundations for Africa, USAID, and the National Endowment for Democracy. The support provided by these partners has been crucial to our work in promoting democracy in Liberia and the ECOWAS Region. A special thanks to the Ambassador of South Africa to Liberia for inspiring participants at the symposium.

The policy issues expressed in this manifesto are the ideas and aspirations of young people from across the country who attended the fifteen symposiums in all counties. Without them, this historic document would not have been produced. Many thanks therefore to all of the participants who attended the symposium and made inputs. The task now is to take this Manifesto to the next level through stakeholders' engagement and advocacy. We trust that you are all prepared for this next stage of the process. And we remain indebted to the thousands of Liberians who, since the formation of our institution (www.naymote.com) in 2001, have supported our efforts, felt empowered, and engaged in democratic processes.

Finally, we wish to thank the hardworking employees and support staff, and volunteers of Naymote Partners for Democratic Development, and our innovative team leader, Eddie D. Jarwolo, who provides unending inspiration.

Introduction/Background

Young people are positive change agents and active participants in civic and political processes. In Liberia, youth (defined as people under the age of 35) constitute 65% of the total population. There are currently more young people registered as voters than any demographic group (out of the 2,476,356 registered voters) according to the Voters' Roll of 2020. If the young people actively participate in the 2023 elections, they could shape and focus the policy debate on issues that matter to them, as well as influence the outcome of the vote. Despite their majority, young people are surprisingly marginalized in mainstream politics and decision-making processes, and face poverty, barriers to education, multiple forms of discrimination, and limited employment prospects and opportunities.

Youth development issues also remain at the bottom of the policy ladder and unattended for the most part. The lack of investment and bold policies for youth development has increased unemployment among Liberian youth, and this is further worsened by a lack of training and educational opportunities. The consequence has been a high rate of youth delinquency and vulnerability. As a result of unemployment and lack of opportunities, Liberia's youth budget, which should be a demographic dividend for national development, is now feared to constitute a demographic bomb if appropriate policy responses are not adopted. It has been observed that, rather than mobilizing and igniting the productive energy of the youth, political leaders instead use them as instruments of violence (or militants) against their opponents. The National Youth Agenda Symposium was organized to develop the youth manifesto for the 2023 presidential and legislative elections. Young people want their issues to be a national priority and should be implemented through public policies and addressed through national development programs. The symposium assembled young people from across the country to deliberate on the issues they consider priority issues for youth development in Liberia.

A two-day national event was held in Monrovia, preceded by 14 county symposiums, one in each of the 14 counties. Each county symposium produced a 'County Youth Agenda for 2023'.

The two-day event in Monrovia focused on national and global Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) issues of concern to young people in the country.

Key stakeholders in public, corporate and nonprofit leadership participated in the opening ceremony and delivered speeches. The symposium also had thematic panels where experts presented key topics on youth development, entrepreneurship, technology, environment, employment and economic opportunities, social services, governance, and democracy. Following the panels, the young people participated in a plenary deliberation where they discussed the issues raised in the presentations and those from the County Agendas. Working groups were established to collate the issues and develop the National Youth Agenda/Manifesto. Below are the key issues (The Manifesto) identified by participants from across the country as policy issues for consideration in the 2023 election and beyond.

The Youth Manifesto

From October 6 to 11, 2022, we the young people of Liberia, under the auspices of Naymote Partners for Democratic Development held 15 symposiums in all of the counties to identify and deliberate on the challenges we face in our own country as young people; and to engage with public officials on the need to prioritize youth development issues through decisive national policies and programs.

We recognize that the 2023 presidential and legislative elections campaign presents an opportunity for us, young people who constitute over 65% of the population to present our issues to political parties and candidates seeking various positions of leadership in our country.

We acknowledge that nearly every potential candidate and political leader in our country today are aware of our challenges and make promises to address youth development challenges.

We believe that the common problems facing young people and potential solutions could only be identified through direct consultations with young people from across the country; and that such issues and potential solutions can be simplified and communicated through an agenda that we will own and advocate for.

Therefore, we, the young people from Liberia, across the 15 counties, political parties, civil society, youth, and student organizations, do hereby present the following as the “National Youth Manifesto for 2023” and call on political parties, presidential and legislative candidates to integrate these as policy issues in their electoral manifestos for the 2023 elections and work toward their achievement after the elections.

On Education, we call for

- The establishment of a National Student Loan Scheme to provide financial support to students at tertiary levels. This scheme should cover tuition and living allowances.
- The establishment of a National Technical and Vocational Education Authority that will govern and improve the TVET sector, develop a TVET curriculum for all high schools in Liberia; and ensure access to quality TVET education in all counties.
- The establishment of Science, Technology, and Innovation Centers in the counties for young people.
- The integration of entrepreneurship into high school curriculum.

On Health and Gender Development, we call for

- The immediate passage and enforcement of legislation against the forceful participation of young girls and boys in various socio-cultural and religious practices that may negatively affect their sexual, reproductive, emotional, and psychological development.
- The establishment of special programs in Liberian schools that will accommodate pregnant women wanting to continue their education during and after their pregnancy.
- The provision of free sanitary products, through government financing, for girls in primary junior, and secondary schools.
- The establishment of psychosocial and rehabilitation centers for the treatment, rehabilitation, and social reintegration of young people using narcotics and other harmful drugs.

On Youth Empowerment and Employment, we call for

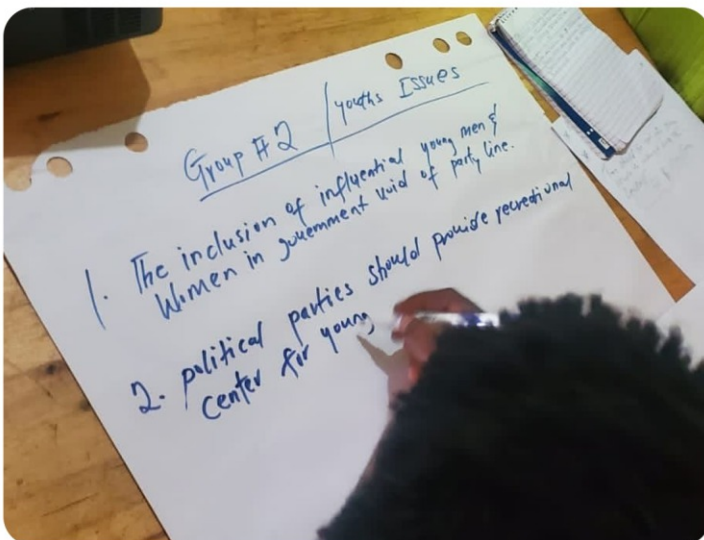

- The establishment of a compulsory and paid National Youth Service Program for all graduating senior students in the country.
- The establishment of a National Youth Empowerment Loan Scheme through government financing for Liberian youth entrepreneurs and start-ups in technology and other sectors.
- A special government program to allocate and improve access to finance for climate-smart youth agriculture programs for young farmers and entrepreneurs in the agriculture sector.

On Governance and the Rule of Law, we call for

- Robust action against corruption in the public sector; the strengthening of the various anti-corruption and pro-accountability agencies; and robust enforcement of the National Code of Conduct for Public Officials.
- The full implementation of the Local Government Act and Revenue Sharing Law to allow for decentralization and local development in the counties.
- The establishment of a specialized anti-corruption court for handling the prosecution of all corruption-related cases.
- The promulgation of laws and policies that promote sustainable development, particularly in the management of natural resources; and take action to promote awareness of climate change and adaptability across the country.

We, the young people trust that our national leaders, political leaders determined to change our lives and prepare us for the future, will listen to us, consider our demands, prioritize our development, and make us competitive in all fields of human progress.
